

DRAFT Harlow Council Main Validation Checklist – March 2026

Introduction

This Validation Checklist details the elements that need to be completed and submitted with a planning application. It includes both national and local requirements, and is compatible with national and local planning policies and guidance, including the National Planning Policy Framework and the Harlow Local Development Plan.

This Checklist does not limit the Council's ability to request additional information if further issues arise, when determining a planning application, which are considered to be a material consideration. A planning application will only be accepted as valid if all required elements are completed and submitted. The council prioritises the processing of valid applications.

This Checklist does not cover Householder applications; details for these can be found on the Householder Validation Checklist webpage.

Planning Portal

Planning applications can be submitted online using the Planning Portal at www.planningportal.co.uk. Submitting using the Portal is the easiest method for applicants and means the council can determine the application as quickly and efficiently as possible.

When preparing a planning application on the Portal, you will need to enter various details including application name and type. You will also need to provide a location plan using the Portal's dedicated tool.

A number of questions about the application must be answered on the Portal. These relate to applicant details, description of the proposal, land ownership certificates, existing uses, materials, trees, biodiversity, waste, parking, etc. Many of the questions will relate to requirements in this Checklist – you need to ensure these requirements are met in your answers to the questions on the Portal.

This Checklist also contains other requirements not covered by the Portal's questions – these requirements can be uploaded to the Portal as supporting documents.

You can also download the relevant forms from the Portal if you prefer to complete an application offline and submit it by email or post.

How to use this Checklist

1. The 'Application Types' table details the main types of planning applications.
2. The 'Summary of Elements' table summaries the information that should be submitted with a planning application, depending on its type and the development proposed. For example, an element may required for all minor applications (as indicated by ★), but another element may only be required for minor applications proposing certain development (as indicated by ☆).
3. Each element is detailed in the 'Validation Checklist Elements' section. This provides further information on when an element is required and what information must be submitted. Submitting the correct information is important to ensure the application can be accepted as valid.
4. There are also requirements for other types of applications (see 'Other Application Types').
5. If an outline planning application is submitted, rather than a full application, any details not covered must be detailed by a subsequent Reserved Matters application (see Other Application Types).
